TEMPORADA CITY

Clever, contemporary and cool. From the edgy interiors to the pared back menu, Temporada shows confidence in its ability to hit all the right notes – which it invariably does. Even the music is extra. From the citrus marinated king prawn, furikake, and lime to the charcoal grilled lamb rump, Merguez sausage, tahini yoghurt, and sugarloaf cabbage, each dish is bold and delicious.

temporada.com.au

AKIBA CITY

A crowd-pleaser from the get-go, Akiba consistently serves 'New Asian' food in its best form. The Bite and Bolt and Feed Me menus are a great way to sample AKIBA's best. The king prawn fried rice and the soft shell crab buns are beyond compare. Pair with a cocktail or something off the extensive sake menu.

akiba.com.au

VERITY LANE MARKET CITY

Verity Lane has turned a disused section of the heritage-listed Sydney Building into a European-style food hall bringing people together over different styles of cuisine and a series of cooler-than-cool bars. Live music, a giant deck into a laneway and a soon-to-be-opened fine diner upstairs means this place has everything you might need for a night's entertainment.

veritylanemarket.com.au

VINCENT BARTON

Expect the unexpected when it comes to wine bar cum restaurant Vincent. Its interior is dark and moody, its table layout unconventional and serpentine. One wall is devoted to a Scrabble tile menu of eleven dishes: six small plates, five large and three desserts to finish. A carefully curated list of local and international wines is designed to complement each dish.

SWEET BONES BRADDON

There's no doubt vegans are having their moment in the sun, but this little spot has been churning out delicious fare for more than a decade now, attracting a fan base from every religion. Their cakes and sweet treats are moreish while their savoury offerings rely on earthy Mexican flavours.

Pub grub

From inner city slick new pubs to rustic and down to earth venues, your search for a great schnitzty and craft beer is made easy.

The RUC.

THE RUC TURNER

If you're looking for a schnitzty, steak night or burger and bowls deal, The RUC Turner is the place to be. The spacious club has revived the former Canberra North Bowling Club, offering a friendly and fun atmosphere with live music on Friday nights. Barefoot bowls anyone?

GEORGE HARCOURT INN NICHOLLS

Named after a past landowner in the area, The George as it's affectionately known, has been around more than 40 years and continues to be a big supporter of live music (you can sing for your supper on some nights!). With 24 beers on tap, The George prides itself on great pub grub – everything from arancini balls to pulled lamb burgers and a chicken parmi.

Assembly.

ASSEMBLY BRADDON

Home to the city's coolest beer garden, Assembly is a place to see and be seen. A huge bar runs down one side while booths and tables are spread across this expansive venue. The menu is more than your classic pub feed featuring kingfish, charcuterie boards, and rotisserie chicken or lamb shoulder to share. And there is no end of beverage options to keep you out until late.

DICKSON TAPHOUSE DICKSON

A relatively newbie on the scene – although with owners who know a thing or two about the local pub scene – the taphouse offers up to 18 beer lines and in contrast to its neighbouring Asian eateries, brings a menu of Italian delights for its pub goers.

DUXTON O'CONNOR

This popular watering hole is a great spot to watch sport but also for its lunch, dinner and late night dining options. Offering the full range of food you'd expect to find in a pub, their pizzas are particularly popular, even offering a vegan pizza option.

OLD CANBERRA INN LYNEHAM

True to its name, the 1857 building housing this pub is older than Canberra itself and one of the oldest licensed venues. Across from the hockey and tennis centre, it's a popular live music venue offering hearty servings of pub food using locally sourced produce.

Fancy a drink

Canberra region wines and spirits are more than well represented across the city's bars. Whether it be an intimate wine bar or venue where cocktails are the hero, there's no shortage of locals willing to share their favourite watering holes with you.

PARLOUR NEWACTON

If you want to be swept away in the romance of old Canberra, Parlour is the place. A beautiful rich interior design — think velvet sofas, heavy drapes, art deco furniture — it really feels like you've entered a grand manor. But things get interesting when you find a cocktail in your hand and can choose from the Spanish-inspired tapas menu.

WHITE RABBIT COCKTAIL ROOM CITY

If it's cocktails that you're after, this place delivers in spades. The comfy setting also offers weekend high teas (the Tippy Teas experience) and plenty of playful and delicious concoctions, such as the Wonderland — replete with strawberries, Frangelico, white chocolate liqueur, lemon and cranberry juice and a chaser of mini cupcakes.

DEAR PRUDENCE CITY

Part of the Verity Lane Market precinct behind the Sydney Building along with Brew Nation, Dear Prudence offers a Euro vibe and is the place to sip a Negroni and dream of faraway places. Inspired by hole in the wall bars you'd find in Barcelona, it offers vermouths and aperitifs, unavailable anywhere else in Canberra plus an impressive wine list.

TIPSY BULL BRADDON

A perennial favourite for food and THE place in Canberra to taste gin. Snare a seat in the sun and deliberate on the gin selection – not only do you choose any one of a multitude of spirits, but they are accompanied by specific garnishes, all of which come artfully placed on a wooden paddle for you to mix and match.

QUEENIES KINGSTON

A wide selection of wines from the Canberra region, Australian wines and premium spirits look stunning sitting in the regal art deco bar that is Queenies. Take a seat at the bar, perch on a high table or take a seat on one of the velvet lounges while enjoying a native inspired bar snack you're your favourite tippie.
